Not illustrated. 1837 Excerpt: . . . spouse not deserted her: with her alone remains the mystery of His real presence: with her alone are His miracles wrought: and to her alone can be applied, Behold, I will make thy enemies to come and adore before thy feet, and they shall know that I have loved thee. During the early part of Lent, Geraldine had been occupied in gleanings from works lent her by the Rev. Dr. Wharton, and the Abate Zaccaria, all that could throw light and interest on the approaching solemn commemorations, and she was therefore now still better enabled to understand and appreciate those attendant ceremonies, which to the superficial observers must be tedious, and to the prejudiced Protestant, mere empty form and idle show. On the eve of the fifth Sunday in Lent, which is the fortnight before Easter, commenced the commemorative history, or mystical representation of our...
