Not illustrated. 1887 Excerpt: .business man, whose study of political economy has been primarily based on the observation of events, guided by the principles which have been laid down by Adam Smith and a few great masters--with the use of other books and current treatises merely as secondary aids to reflection--it seems a very mistaken way to discuss bimetallism as a theory, when bimetallism exists de-facto in almost every country which has any coin of any kind in circulation, and when it can be observed in all its bearings. It also seems to be rather a waste of time to discuss either the alleged or prospective demonetization of silver by England, Germany, or any other nation, when silver has not been and can not be demonetized or deprived of its function as a money metal any where; or when the very conception of doing away with silver money is...
